Cincinnati Places Hopes On Gene Thompson

THREAT OF RAIN APPEARS; TIGER CHOICE SECRET

Del Baker May Gamble On
Dizzy Trout To Chuck
Fourth Contest

DETROIT, Oct. 5—Although the threat of rain was in the air, fans were hopeful today that the weather would not interfere with the fourth game of the World Series between Detroit and Cincinnati in Briggs Stadium. The count now stands two games for Detroit and one for Cincinnati.

There was a possibility that Manager Del Baker, of the Tigers, would send Buck Newsom back to the mound in an effort to chalk up another win for the Tigers. Newsom pitched and won the first game in Cincinnati. Paul Trout was the alternate choice for Detroit while Gene Thompson was to be the Cincinnati hurler.

If rain forces postponement of today's game, the fourth and fifth tilts will be played in Detroit Sunday and Monday with the series moving back to Cincinnati on Tuesday, if necessary.

Threatening inclement weather was expected to hold the crowd today to approximately the 52,877 persons, far under expectation, who were in Briggs Stadium yesterday.

Up To Derringer

If Thompson loses then Paul Derringer will have to make a last ditch stand tomorrow. If Thompson wins the Reds will have Derringer and Bucky Walters ready for the fifth and sixth games. If it goes to a seventh game the final clinch may be between Johnny Gorschica and a last minute selection by McKechnie.

The breaks are favoring Detroit so far. It is extremely doubtful if Ernie Lombardi can be used again except as a pinch-hitter. He cannot take a natural swing at the plate and although he delivered one good hit yesterday his seven innings of squatting behind the plate and the run and slide he made in the second inning to complete his two-bagger have aggravated his ankle strain.

The loss of Lonnie Frey is no such calamity as the shelving of Lombardi, Cincinnati's best distance hitter. Eddie Joost, Frey's replacement, has produced four hits in the three games and driven in two runs.

This morning there was some doubt as to whether Ival Gooden could patrol right field today. He still suffers from the effects of being hit in the groin with a batted ball yesterday.

The Tigers still enjoy good team health. As long as nothing happens to Hank Greenberg or Rudy York they should win the close ones. York delivered the blow that practically finished Turner yesterday, but it must not be forgotten that Greenberg was the gent who started the two biggest Detroit scoring rounds with singles.

Following are the probable line-ups:

WORLD SERIES FAN DIES AFTER HEARING CONTEST

DETROIT, Oct. 5—Undue excitement caused while he was listening to yesterday's World Series game between Detroit and Cincinnati was blamed today for the death of William Hudson, 40. He died of a heart attack in his home. He had not been ill previously.

Celebration Breaks Out As Tigers Go Into Lead

DETROIT, Oct. 5—A casual visitor to Detroit, one not cognizant of the fact a World Series was in progress, would have been amazed at the spontaneous outburst in the downtown area late yesterday afternoon.

For no seemingly good reason, the air was suddenly filled with confetti and serpentine, streaming down from the towering buildings bunched closely together. Automobile horns began to toot far more

MUCH OF GUARD FORCE TO MASS ON EAST COAST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Huge concentrations of manpower are shortly to be made at points along the North Atlantic coast which were used during the World War primarily as embarkation camps from which troops went overseas, it was learned today.

Disclosure of army plans to assign a large proportion of the forthcoming conscript army to these points followed announcements that big-scale construction of barracks and other facilities already is underway at posts in New Jersey, Maryland and Massachusetts.

In addition, full divisions of the National Guard either have been or will be ordered to these posts. These divisions, with regular army units already there, will train conscripts in the huge cantonment cities.

Army officials, however, vigorously denied that there was any significance to the fact that men are to be concentrated at points in this country nearest to the battleground of Europe.

"Men trained in the North will be primarily from the North," they declared. "Suppose we want to send them to Canada, or to Alaska? We wouldn't want to send them South to be softened. We'd want them to stay North and get hardened."

F. D. SCHEDULED TO SPEAK OVER RADIO AT 2:45

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 5—Ninety miles up the Hudson River from New York City's voting millions, President Roosevelt arranged today to share the political spotlight in the Empire State over the week end with his Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie.

While the G.O.P. nominee was concentrating on the nation's greatest metropolis, Mr. Roosevelt returned to his Hyde Park home to make a speech this afternoon that the Democratic board of strategy decided at the last minute to put on two of the major radio networks.

The President arrived at his home here at 8:30 this morning. The President was to go on the air over the blue network of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System at 2:45, in an address long arranged to dedicate simultaneously the three new schoolhouses of his home community.

Today's schoolhouse speech was set as a prelude to a further move of the President through his home state of New York, the 48 electoral votes of which are being wooed earnestly by both parties.

GERMAN BOMBERS RESUME ATTACKS; AXIS PLANS FOR WAR THROUGH WINTER

SEVEN RAIDERS HARASS LONDON

Two Bombs Drop On East End, Causing Heavy Toll

LONDON, Oct. 5—Authoritative British circles warned Germany and Italy today that this country is ready for anything that the axis may have in store. Replying to the Brenner Pass meeting between Mussolini and Hitler, authorized circles took up the cry:

"The dictators can't fool or scare us."

LONDON, Oct. 5—British fighting planes, working in close cooperation with blazing anti-aircraft batteries, this afternoon hurled back a new German attempt to bomb the British capital.

After a 30-minute battle high above the city, the Nazi warplanes fled after haphazardly unloading their bombs on London's east end, killing and injuring a number of residents.

LONDON, Oct. 5—Killing and injuring a number of residents, two bombs were dropped on an east end district of London today as German air attacks on England were renewed by German bombers which crossed the coastline and sped toward the capital.

Several houses were wrecked by the explosions. Anti-aircraft batteries in the center of the city sent up a heavy barrage against the raiders.

This assault brought a new daylight air raid alarm to London, the capital's 167th of the war. It terminated quickly, however, after some aerial fighting over the outskirts and other activity, mostly anti-aircraft fire, around the center of the city.

RAF fighting planes engaged the Nazi raiders all the way from the east to the outskirts of the city; where most of the Germans finally were driven off and scattered back toward the coast.

LITTLE BOY WINS OCTOBER PRIZES AS FIRST BABY

A little boy born at 12:55 a. m. Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil A. Schwalbaugh, 917 Clinton Street, is Circleville's first baby of October. The youngster, the second in the Schwalbaugh family, weighed eight pounds. His father is a garage mechanic.

Dr. D. V. Courtwright was the attending physician.

As the first baby in October the child and his parents will receive the following awards:

A quart of milk free for two weeks, by the Blue Ribbon Dairy.

A month's pass, by the Clifton Theatre.

A floral tribute by Brehmer's Greenhouses.

Five gallons of gasoline, by Goeller's Service Station.

A carton of six 60-watt lamps, by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

A $1 savings account, by the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

A three months' subscription to The Daily Herald, by the Circleville Publishing Co.

SPRAY DOES BUSINESS

An electric fly spray in the Gallaher drug store, West Main Street, produced such a fog in the store Friday night at 10:30 that a passer-by, thinking the building filled with smoke, turned in the fire alarm.

As York's Homer Started Cincinnati's Downfall

DETROIT Tiger First Baseman Rudy York (4) is shown reaching home plate after hitting the game's first homer in the seventh inning. The Tigers claved the Cincinnati Reds by a score of 7 to 4 at Briggs stadium in Detroit.

Healthers Investigate Paralysis In Kingston

Dr. R. E. Bower, Ross County health commissioner, was to go to Kingston Saturday afternoon to determine whether a youth ill in the village is suffering from infantile paralysis. Curtis Routt, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Routt, is ill.

A Kingston physician who attended the youth said he feared that paralysis had developed, but that he would not make a definite decision until the health commissioner made an investigation.

Another Kingston child is in a Columbus hospital suffering from the disease.

Pickaway County health authorities, Saturday, were keeping a close check on the county's two infantile paralysis cases, although no new cases have been reported and those under quarantine are improving.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, health commissioner, said that he had visited Elaine Stoker, 12-year-old Atlanta school girl, Friday, and found her condition satisfactory. Dr. Blackburn reported that the girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stoker, of near-Atlanta, had some paralysis in her left leg, but that the disease appeared to be no worse.

Fay Isaac, seventh grade Corwin Street school girl, is in good condition, Dr. G. W. Heffner, attending physician, reported, after he had examined the girl Friday. No paralysis has yet appeared in the girl's limbs, it is reported.

Meanwhile, Dr. Blackburn announced that he had investigated all possible infantile paralysis suspects in the county and that all had proved to be "false alarms."

Officials at Atlanta reported that the "Annafair," which had been postponed because of the disease, would be held as scheduled.

It is also reported that the Atlanta school will reopen Monday.

TIFFIN BOY, 19, FACES CHARGES OF MURDER

TIFFIN, Oct. 5—Nineteen-year-old Donald Wagler today awaited grand jury action after he pleaded innocent to a first-degree murder charge accusing him of killing his former employer, Roy E. Schafer, 33.

Seneca County Prosecutor Robert C. Carpenter filed the charge after Wagler allegedly admitted beating Schafer to death at his home east of Tiffin. An autopsy, Carpenter said, showed the farmer died of a skull fracture resulting from blows on the head. The quarrel resulted in an argument over Wagler's use of the Schafer car, the prosecutor said.

European Bulletins

ROME—A grim warning to Britain that henceforth arms will speak for the axis powers instead of words was sounded today by Virginia Gayda, the authoritative Fascist editor who often expresses Premier Mussolini's views. The Italian journalist also reiterated warnings to the United States to remain out of the war.

DOVER, Eng.—The Straits of Dover were calmer today, but visibility was limited by mist and an overcast sky. There were high cloud formations and a westerly wind.

LONDON—The London Daily Telegraph reported from Athens today that official Greek sources revealed 130,000 Italian troops equipped with 120 tanks have been moved to new positions along the Greco-Albanian frontier. The newspaper said Greece has taken all precautions against any "surprise."

LONDON—Roof-top watchers who stood guard in London during the night reported today that the German raiders seem to be using a new kind of bomb. They said the new missile "whines like a wounded wolf" as it falls and glows a fiery red.

LONDON—Unity Freeman Mitford, whose blonde beauty once won the admiration of Chancellor Hitler, and her sister Deborah narrowly escaped death when a large bomb dropped near their cottage in the country, it was disclosed today. The ceiling fell on their heads and windows were blown out by the concussion but neither was hurt.

TWO QUARANTINED YOUTHS ENGAGE IN BRUTAL FIGHT

Health and civil authorities were undetermined Saturday what charges would be put against Atwell (Red) Lindsey, 21, and Basil Isaac, 20, following a fight in which they engaged Friday night. Both were treated in Berger Hospital for injuries, Lindsey for a knife wound in the side and Isaac for a severe scalp laceration.

Both youths are supposed to be under quarantine. The Isaac youth's sister being ill with infantile paralysis and Lindsey being a roomer there. They were in the east end a considerable distance from the Isaac home when they fought.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff refused to put them in the county jail because he did not wish to take a chance of having the jail quarantined.

Administration's Policy To

1921 PACT DISCUSSED

Wheeler Claims Uncle Sam
Cannot Be Intimidated
By Nipponese

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—The administration today adopted an "arm fast but say little" policy as abuse poured in on America from Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

But legislators on Capitol Hill were more vocal. Burning under the attacks, they declared that this country would continue to uphold its rights in all parts of the world, despite threats of war.

Center of attention in both executive and legislative departments of the government was the dramatic interview given International News Service in Tokyo yesterday by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka of Japan. He declared that if this country insisted on maintaining the "status quo" in the Orient—thus blocking Nippon's expansionist program—she went to the active aid of Britain against Europe's "axis powers"—that would mean war.

Two points in Matsuoka's statement attracted sardonic smiles in Washington.

One was his statement that America's upholding of the "status quo" was a cause for war. Little more than four months ago, it was recalled, when Holland's defeat raised the question of sovereignty over the Dutch East Indies, it was Japan who demanded of the western powers that the "status quo" in the East should be respected.

1921 Pact Recalled
Then Japan, Great Britain and the United States all publicly affirmed their loyalty to the "status quo." Secretary of State Hull took the opportunity to point out that this policy was definitely in line with the four-power pact of 1921.

BRICKER TO PUT SOURS IN OHIO HIGHWAY POST

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Hal G. Sours, of Akron, now assistant state highway director, will succeed Brig. Gen. Robert S. Beightler as state highway director when the Ohio National Guard leaves for duty at Camp Shelby, Miss., about October 15, it was learned today.

General Beightler is expected to be promoted to the rank of major general by Governor Bricker. In such a capacity, Beightler would command the 37th Division of the O.N.G. and would succeed Maj. Gen. Gilsen D. Light who failed to pass physical examinations of the regular army.

Greenfield Wins 25-0 Grid Joust Over Red, Black

Reverses And Off-Tackle Smashes Find Local Defense Impotent; Fumbles Hurt Chances To Break Into Scoring Column Friday Eve

Circleville High Tigers believed Friday night that the honors they won by holding Lancaster to two touchdowns would be sufficient to force a Greenfield McClain varsity to say "uncle" without a struggle, but they learned that Red Armstrong has a bunch of scrapping athletes who play one game at a time and forget what has happened in the last encounter. Greenfield won 25-0 from the Circleville Red and Black, and was impressive in doing so. McClain, playing at home, was good enough that Circleville's feeble efforts looked rather heartless.

Circleville tackling was poor, the blocking was worse and ball handling about as bad. Twice fumbles cost what might have been touchdowns, the first one proving the most costly since a touchdown there would have made the score either 12-6 or 12-7 depending on the conversion. It was early in the third period and had Circleville scored the complexion of the game might have been completely changed. The second fumble came in the fourth session after Greenfield had its four touchdowns and wouldn't have made any difference, except that Circleville might have crossed the chalk line for the first time this year. The game was a South Central Ohio League contest.

Greenfield's scout, Carl Doyle, who watched the Circleville-Lancaster game did a good job. He saw that it was useless to try to smash the middle of the Tiger line, so few efforts were directed that way. But the McClain lads, led by the brilliant Eldon Newland, circled Circleville's ends and went off-tackle so much and with such good results that there was no need for line smashes. Double reverses back of the line had the Tiger flankers groggy trying to find the ball, and it was this weapon and a couple of breaks that gave the McClain boys the ball game. McClain's passing attack was not potent, but it wasn't needed, because the end runs and off-tackle slants proved sufficient to overcome anything the Tigers had to offer.

First Quarter Scoreless
The first period saw Greenfield running up seven first downs to one for the Tigers, the session ending on the 13 yard line. Three plays in the second period brought the touchdown. Paul Orr smashing over his left tackle for the necessary yardage after two plays picked up five. Orr failed in a smash for the extra point.
The second score in the same session came after a break. Johnny Woods fumbling a Greenfield kickoff and Stewart covering for McClain on the Circleville 30. A pass that a Circleville defender touched, but let get away gave Greenfield 10 yards. Then Orr picked up nine at tackle, and Grate ran a reverse to the 13. Grate picked up four more, and Newland slipped over right tackle for the touchdown. Orr hit the line again, but failed to make the extra point.
The Red and Black picked up two first downs before the half ended.

Valentine On Fumble
Circleville got a break as the third period started, when Chub Valentine in at center for Bob Brown, who played the first half despite painful boils on his left arm, covered a Greenfield kick-off fumble. The ball was on the 50, the kickoff being a short one. Bob Moon punted out of bounds on the Greenfield 15 after the Tigers were held, and on the first scrimmage play a center pass went awry and Jack Crawford covered for Circleville on the six. Staley picked up two, and then a Tiger back fumbled the next pass from center, losing eight. A pass was grounded, and Kline's attempted dropkick was wide.
The third touchdown followed an exchange of punts, Newland making a neat run back of a kick deep in his own territory. He carted the leather back to the 35. Newland picked up seven, and then three more. Grate took the ball on another reverse and went around the Circleville left end to the 30. Newland got eight, and Orr two, before Newland went over his right tackle again for the touchdown, not a hand being put on him. Orr's smash for the point was good.

Fumble, Then Two Plays
Greenfield scored its fourth touchdown mid-way in the fourth period on two plays after Geib fumbled Newland's punt on the 35 yard line. He was hit just as he caught the ball, Morgan, Greenfield end, recovering. Newland went around the right end to the 17, and Grate carried the ball on another reverse to the goal line. Greenfield tried a smash for the point, but was offside. The score was 25-0.

Circleville, aided by a 15 and 5-yard penalty following a fumble recovery by Jack Beck, moved the ball down the field late in the period to add another scoring threat. A pass, Staley to Woods, over the goal line was knocked down, and a fumbled pass from center lost possession on the 12-yard line just before the game ended.

Marvin Jenkins, senior halfback, accompanied the team but was not in uniform.

Greenfield's scouting of the Lancaster game resulted in Clark Martin, bulwark of the Tiger line, being played by two men throughout the game. The hard-hitting guard kept trying hard, but there wasn't much he could do. Crawford was strong defensively, and so was Valentine.

Injuries Not Serious
The Tigers came out of the game in fairly good condition. Dud Smallwood, sophomore end, was out for a while after being kicked in the head, but, despite a headache, he was ok before the bus arrived home. Bob Kline's ankle injury proved to be not serious. Other lads were bumped around some, but all will be ready for action next Friday when Groveport invades the local ballfield.

Circleville took a large crowd to Greenfield including the varsity band. The musicians put on a good show at half time.

Varsity ends at University of Southern California, Bob Jones, left, and Al Kreuger, reach high for footballs during a practice session in Los Angeles. Word is that the Trojans again have a powerhouse club.

CORNELL, COLGATE GRAB ATTENTION IN EAST GRID
ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 5—One of the banner football games of the season was expected today in the annual clash of Cornell and Colgate.

Cornell, unbeaten last year and champions of the East, carried into today's game most of the stars who helped the Big Red last season. Cornell was the natural favorite today, but a hard closely-contested game was in prospect and a victory for Andy Kerr's Red Raiders would not be a terrific upset.

Colgate is a much improved squad this time, much stronger in fact, than the team that barely missed snatching a victory from Cornell in the closing moments of the game last year.

Kerr has some big rangy backs who can pass as well as run and the Colgate supporters looked for fireworks from the opening whistle.

COLONELS DEFEAT NEWARK WITH NINTH INNING DRIVE
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5—By virtue of a story-book finish which last night defeated the Newark Bears, 5 to 4, the Louisville Colonels today were still in the running for baseball's little world series championship.

Trailing 4 to 1 as they came up to the ninth inning of the series' third game, and with Newark holding victories in the first two games, the Colonels put on a four-run rally which won the game just when it appeared the eastern team had the title in the bag.

Singles by Williams, Lewis, Jordan and Morgan, combined with a Newark error on an attempted sacrifice, brought the ninth inning runs for the Colonels. This rally overshadowed earlier, brilliant play by Newark, including a sixth-inning homer by Third Baseman Alex Kampouris which sailed over the right field fence 345 feet away.

Zivic Centers Attack On Armstrong's Eyes, Wins Welter Gonfalon

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—There are some sports events so unforgettably thrilling they remained etched in the memory forever. Jack Dempsey being knocked out of the ring by Luis Firpo. Man O' War racing John P. Grier to defeat in the stretch. Babe Ruth calling his shot in a World Series. Old Pete Alexander shuffling in to fan Tony Lazzeri with the bases loaded. Glen Cunningham breaking a world record.

All memories that linger but none of them more soul-stirring than the sight of little Henry Armstrong, battered, bruised and blinded, marching in to his doom against the flaying fists of Fritz Zivic in Madison Square Garden last night.

Yes, Henry lost his welterweight title after 15 of the most vicious rounds ever fought, but he lost like a true champion should. There was no doubt as to the victor. The crowd sensed as early as the tenth round that a new champion was in the making, but that crowd stayed to cheer the game little fellow who gave it all he had and still lost.

Henry was on his way as early as the eighth round when Zivic, fighting a cool, heady battle, cut both of the champion's eyes and never let up banging away at them. In ten different rounds Fritz knocked the rubber mouthpiece from Henry's mouth and soon his lips were twice their natural size.

Henry On Ear
Zivic did just what he said he'd do—cut the old scar tissue over Henry's eyes, blind him and then finish. He didn't quite finish him but as the bell rang to end the fight Henry was resting on his ear, as the result of a terrific right to the jaw.

For the first seven rounds they stood head to head with Henry banging away from outside and Fritz stabbing, cutting and slashing at Henry's eyes. Occasionally Fritz would step back and swing a right hand bolo punch to the pit of Henry's stomach. That punch always hurt.

Through the last three rounds Henry took a terrible beating. Exhausted, his punch, gone he was just a punching bag for his cool, merciless opponent. But he it said to his everlasting credit, Henry never took a backward step. He plunged in headlong by so blinded by his own blood that at times he would run right past Zivic.

Then came the final round and Zivic stood off and banged Henry at will. Just before the bell, the Pittsburgher landed a corking right and Henry went down on his ear just as the bell rang.

In his dressing room after the fight, Zivic, showing almost no signs of the grueling battle, said that Henry hurt him only twice. Once with a left hook to the liver in the sixth round and again with a stiff right behind the ear.

Michigan was to line up today against its traditional football rival, Michigan State. A crowd of between 60,000 and 65,000 was expected for the 36th renewal of the series.

BIG GENE FACES A. L. CHAMPIONS IN CRUCIAL TILT

Thompson On Spot Second Time In Short Career As Top Notcher

By Lawton Carver
BRIGGS STADIUM, DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 5 — Either Gene Thompson is utterly without fear, or he and Manager Bill McKeechie of the Cincinnati Reds have extremely short memories. Thompson was to step into the World Series clutch today against the Detroit Tigers—into virtually the same clutch that beat his ears down around his heels and finally engulfed him last year when he opposed the New York Yankees.

With the Tigers leading by two games to one, it was to be Thompson, a right-handed fast ball and sinker specialist, against either Dizzy Trout or Buck Newsum, and the conclusion must be that Thompson has forgotten all that has gone before. He has brushed aside the poignant memories of what that other slugging club did to him last year.

The Yankees had won two straight when Thompson was cast in the role of the gent who would mend the dykes, quell the uprising and so forth, but, instead, he was hit for four home runs—among other things—for a World Series single game record-tying onslaught by the Yankees, who went on finally to a clean sweep.

Tigers Slugging
These Tigers are sluggers, too, as they proved yesterday when they blasted Jim Turner off the hill and scored a 7 to 4 victory behind the veteran Tommy Bridges, who thus was credited with his fourth World Series triumph going back to his starts for the Tigers against the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934 and the Chicago Cubs in 1935.

The game was the most thrilling of the three played, and the best, most vivid illustration of Tiger power. Having been held in check except for the lone home run hit by Bruce Campbell and the triple by Rudy York when they won the opener and having been subdued with three hits in their loss to Bucky Walters Thursday, the Tigers turned on the power yesterday.

They smacked out 13 hits, greatest total compiled by either side in any game so far, and, included among their blasts were home runs by Rudy York and Pinky Higgins, a triple by Hank Greenberg, and doubles by Campbell, McCosky and Higgins. The seventh inning brought on the homers and McCosky's double, among other safe blows, and caused Turner to depart the premises, loser of a battle between native Tennesseans.

Bridges pitched his usual game—the kind that keeps him from working as often as other hurlers for the simple reason that he pours virtually every pitch in there with all he can muster in the way of power and wile. When it is over he is 'worn to a well-frayed frazzle. He was badly used up yesterday, but still had enough stuff and courage to strike out Billy Meyers and, finally, Mike McCormick for the final out in the ninth when the Reds were threatening to get going. They made three of their 10 hits in the ninth.

Difference Shown
For the series, the figures show the difference between the two clubs—the difference in power that spelled doom for the Reds last year and seemingly is about to do it again unless Thompson somehow can manage to display something he didn't have before. He'd better stop the sluggers.

STAGG AT SOUTH BEND
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 5 — One of the all-time greats of football coaching, Amos Alonzo Stagg, today brought his college of the Pacific time to a celebration in honor of another all-time great, the late Knute Rockne. "Knute Rockne week" celebration was brought to a climax today when an estimated 30,000 fans moved toward Notre Dame stadium to see the 78-year-old Stagg's eleven tangle with the 1940 edition of the fighting Irish.

PANTHERS FAVORITES
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 — Installed as favorites, the University of Pittsburgh Panthers today hoped to recover from the Missouri Tigers, Big Six champions, some of the prestige lost in their crushing 30-7 defeat last Saturday by Ohio State. Today's was the opening home game for Pitt.

Missouri's hopes were pinned on the passing of Paul Christman, who completed three aeriars for touchdowns last week when the Tigers whipped St. Louis 40-26. Fullback George Kracum of Pitt probably will take over any counter-passing offensive.

BIG TEN CROWN GOES ON LINE

Buckeyes To Play Purdue As 50,000 Crowd Stadium; Byelene Watched

By Larry Newman
COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—The sleight-of-hand artists representing Ohio State University on the gridiron, today had the blue chips down and the deck shuffled as they prepared to lay their Big Ten crown on the table for the first time this season against the invading Boilermakers of Purdue.

Upwards of 50,000, including 13,000 high school students, were expected to move on Ohio's spacious horseshoe stadium as the Scarlet sought to make it two straight this year and also to avenge a 12 to 0 defeat suffered at the hands of Mal Edwards' team in 1938.

Confidence reigned supreme in both camps prior to the opening kickoff. The Bucks and Coach Francis Schmidt were confident almost to the point of cockiness in predicting "we'll take care of those Purduers" while Coach Elward answered, "Purdue teams are always confident—and this team is no exception."

Ohio State placed its fate in the capable hands and feet of Don Scott, pre-season All-American quarterback choice who is a passer and kicker deluxe. Scott's great field generalship and aerial tossing accounted for at least three of the Ohio touchdowns scored last week in the 30 to 7 rout of Pittsburgh's once-mighty Panthers.

But if Purdue has been reading the press clippings of the touted State club, the team certainly wasn't showing any signs of journalistic jitters. Led by the fleet Mike Byelene, 165-pound will-o-the-wisp halfback from Massillon, O., and all Big Ten End Dave Rankin, the Boilermakers pointed to an easy 28 to 0 win over Butler last Saturday and said slyly, "and we were only coasting."

Despite their confidence, the Indians faced a terrific handicap, being outweighed 17 pounds to the man on the line and nearly 15 pounds to a man on the backfield.

SANTA CLARA WINS UCLA GAME WITH FIELD GOAL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5—Santa Clara University pulled a tight game out of the fire late in the fourth quarter at Memorial Coliseum last night to win from the Bruins of U.C.L.A., 9 to 6. The broncos boot a field goal with but six minutes left to play.

A crowd of 60,000 was on hand. Santa Clara scored first in the opening four minutes of play on two passes, and a few minutes later the Bruins scored from the 12-yard line after the Negro ace, Jackie Robinson, got off a nice series of gains to put the ball in scoring position.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At New York — Fritz Zivic, 145½, Pittsburgh, won world's welterweight title by decision over Henry Armstrong, 142, Los Angeles, Calif. (15).

Julie Kogan, 132½, New Haven, Conn., defeated Percy Scalzo, 128½, New York (8).

Churches Planning To Take Part In Communion Rites At Sunday Service

All Congregations Have Programs In Keeping With World Move

Four hundred and twenty members of the First Presbyterian Church have been asked to participate in a world-wide Communion service Sunday. Over 2,000,000 communicant members of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, as well as members of churches in other parts of the world, will take part in the service.

Prior to the Communion at the local Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey will speak on "Loyalty Inspired." Mrs. Clark Will and Franklin Price will sing a vocal duet "The Lord is My Light" by Dudley Buck. Miss Abbe Mills Clarke will play as organ selections "By the Waters of Babylon" by Stoughton, "Berceuse" by Silver, and "Finale in C" by Harris.

Sunday also has been designated by the General Council of the Presbyterian Church as Loyalty Sunday. This theme will be emphasized in both the Sunday School and Church worship.

Members of the Calvary Evangelical Church will also unite with Christians of the world in the Communion service Sunday. During the morning service, beginning at 10:15 a. m., the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, pastor, will speak on "The Oneness with Christ," and the choir will sing "Something For Jesus" by Phelps. During the evening service the pastor will use the subject "Found, the Pearl of Great Price."

Special Communion services also will be conducted at St. Philip's Episcopal Church during the Sunday morning worship service and at the Trinity Lutheran Church at both the morning and evening services. Afternoon Communion services will be held at Christ Church Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m.

MINISTERS PLAN FIRST CONFERENCE OF SEASON

The Pickaway County Ministerial Association will have its initial fall meeting, Monday, with ministers of all denominations and their wives invited to the one o'clock luncheon at Brown's Restaurant. During the business session the election of officers for the coming year will be held.

The Rev. C. L. Thomas, of Ringgold, will be the program speaker. During the last year the Rev. L. C. Sherburne has been president of the association and the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, secretary-treasurer.

LUTHERAN MEETINGS

Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. the Ladies Society of the Lutheran Church will meet, with Junior choir practice scheduled for 7 p. m. Teachers meeting at 6:45 and Senior choir practice at 7:15 make up Friday's activities. Catechetical instruction will be given Saturday at 2 p. m.

Luke and His Gospel

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 1: Acts 1:1-5; 16:9-15; Colossians 4:14; II Tim. 4:11.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Zacharias, a priest, and his wife, Elisabeth, had no children, but one day while Zacharias was burning incense in the temple, an angel of the Lord appeared to him and told him that his wife would have a child.

An angel of the Lord also appeared some months later to Mary, a virgin, and cousin of Elisabeth, espoused to Joseph of Nazareth, and told her she also would have a child whose name should be called Jesus.

When the angel left her, Mary arose and went to the house of Zacharias and Elisabeth and told her cousin what the angel had said. Elisabeth "spoke with a loud voice," saying, "Blessed art thou among women!"

When Elisabeth's babe was born she named him John. Her kinfolk objected, but Zacharias, who had been stricken dumb because he refused to believe the angel, wrote, "His name is John." (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 1:3,4)

Matters Of Importance Discussed By Lutherans

Highlighting the tenth anniversary convention of the American Lutheran Church, third largest Lutheran body in the United States, to be held in Detroit, Michigan, October 8 to 17, will be the Anniversary celebration on Sunday evening, October 13 at the Naval Armory with the Rev. Ralph H. Long, D. D., of New York City, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, giving the address.

The matter of closer relationship with other Lutheran groups in the country, particularly the United Lutheran Church and the Missouri Synod, will come in for considerable attention and discussion. Reports of the official committees of the interested groups will be read and studied, and if possible, some definite action taken.

Other matters of importance to come before the Convention will be the foreign mission work of the church as affected by present world conditions, and resolutions asking for triennial instead of biennial conventions of the church body, and condemning all forms of gambling and other offensive methods of raising money for the church.

A special evening program will be devoted entirely to Home Missions. Statistics will be graphically presented, the field will be surveyed, typical scenes will be pictured, and the spirit and purpose of the Home Mission enterprise will be interpreted. The lecture will be given by the Rev. E. H. Meuser, Columbus, Ohio, Executive Secretary of the Board of Home Missions, and the program will be in charge of the Rev. H. L. Yochum, Detroit, Michigan, president of the Michigan District of the American Lutheran Church and Publicity Secretary of the Home Mission Board.

The American Lutheran Church, which was organized in 1930 at Toledo, Ohio from a merger of the Iowa, Ohio, and Buffalo Synods, has 561,000 baptized members and 394,000 adult members found in 32 states, the District of Columbia, and the Dominion of Canada. Extensive mission fields are maintained in India and New Guinea. Headquarters are at Columbus, Ohio, and the General President is the Rev. Emmanuel Poppen, D. D.

Special services of praise and thanksgiving are planned for the morning of October 13 in the 2,000 congregations of the Church. During this year these congregations have been engaged in raising a Thanksgiving Fund of $500,000, and in a Church Life and Growth Endeavor which has as its chief aim to deepen the spiritual life of the members and to promote a spirit of evangelism.

DARBY TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

On Tuesday evening a surprise birthday party was given for Evelyn Stinchcomb by her sister Mary at their home. The Darby Senior Class, of which Evelyn is a member, was invited. It was an enjoyable evening for everyone. Evelyn received many nice gifts.

Friday proved to be a day full of events and excitement for the high school. Assembly was held in the morning when Rev. I. C. Wright from the Derby Methodist Church gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Success". Then in the afternoon Scioto motored to Darby to be defeated by both girls and boys in softball games. The scores were, Girls 22-20; boys, 8-6.

The Juniors chose Friday evening to have their class party at the home of Marilyn Near. Mr. Roach, one of the new teachers and the Junior Class Advisor, was chaperone.

On Tuesday evening, October 3, the moving picture "Barfoot Boy" will be shown in the local school auditorium. An admission of ten cents will be charged at the door for all.

LATIN-AMERICA SWATS NAZIS

A PREVALENT impression that Nazi propaganda was entrenching itself in Latin-American countries, if it ever was true, is no longer so. Nazi intrusion overreached itself and put on too much pressure. At the same time the Latin republics began to see what it was all about, and started an ideological house-cleaning. In this wholesome procedure they were naturally encouraged by Uncle Sam. The result, according to latest reports, stands about as follows:

Argentina, which has always been the most independent and nonco-operative of our New World neighbors, seems to have turned around and done the best job of all. In a remote northern province where the Nazis were dominating education, business and nearly everything else, by a combination of what columnists Alsop and Kintner call "blackmail, physical gangsterism, economic pressure and emotional persuasion", the Argentine government sent a force of national police and cleaned up the whole mess, including the Hitlerized schools.

Other patriotic vindicators of their own independence have been Colombia, Uruguay, Cuba, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic, and the movement sweeps on irresistibly.

Thus the whole hemisphere is rounding into an ideological unity more quickly and thoroughly than most of us had any reason to hope.

THE WAR BUS

A MILITARY analyst observes that Hitler is two months behind in his schedule of conquest in Europe, and Japan is two years behind its Asiatic schedule. Which is to say, they've both "missed the bus". The question remains, whether there will be another bus coming along in time to save their hides and ideologies.

That seems to depend a good deal on Uncle Sam. Britain has temporarily stopped Hitler's progress by a miracle of courageous defense. Can we provide Britain with enough war materials, quickly enough, to turn that check into a disastrous rout?

And can we, or will we, make such a show of naval power in the Far East that the Japanese will not dare to move south to grab the East Indies and threaten the Philippines?

If we do make these counter-moves successfully, the totalitarian bus may prove to be a blunderbuss.

Uncle Sam has notified Hitler again of Germany's post-bellum debt to this country. Now don't ask whether Germany's going to pay.

It's as hard on a nation as on an individual to have no friends.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

MCCORMACK MAJORITY LEADER

WASHINGTON—It is a striking symptom of the focus of public attention that the election of Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts as Majority Floor Leader of the House attracted little more than passing notice.

Two years ago, before the war crises, both the event and the man would have been top head, front page news. And they would have warranted it.

In the legislative machinery of the House, the Majority Leader is a key pin. Through the power he wields, both open and undercover, he can decide the fate of bills. More than one strong-willed Majority Leader in the past has been the virtual boss of the House of Representatives.

No President can hope to get to first base in the House without the good will of the Majority Leader, and without a Majority Leader who is smart. Otherwise the White House incumbent is sure to be in constant water putting through the legislation he wants.

In addition to all this, McCormack's election was a political milestone. He is the first New England Democrat, and the second northern Democrat, in the history of the House to achieve this post.

Until McCormack's victory, every Democratic Majority Leader in the 152 years existence of the House—with one other exception—had been a Southerner. Naturally this had a pronounced effect on the machinery of the chamber. And in the House, with 435 members, the machinery is all important.

NON-SECTIONAL LEADER

There are two other very significant facts about McCormack's election. One was the fact that he is a strong New Dealer and close personal friend of the President; and the other that he was elected with Southern votes.

One of his most effective campaigners was Representative Gene Cox of Georgia, frequently an assiduous New Deal foe.

This apparent contradiction—a Boston-Irish New Dealer being enthusiastically supported by Southern antis for a decisive post in party and legislative control—is the clue to why McCormack won it and to the kind of leadership that can be expected from him.

McCormack is a diplomat and not a slugger. He will rule by persuasion, not the strong-arm. This does not mean that he is a pussyfooter or softy. He can fight and hits hard when he has to, as the House well knows from experience. But McCormack's instinct is to talk softly and use the gloved hand.

It is noteworthy that while supporting every major New Deal measure and taking the lead in bitter battles over many of them, he left no personal scars. Cox is an example. A fierce foe of the National Labor Relations Act, he played a leading role in putting a bill through the House aimed at scuttling the law. McCormack just as determinedly fought the bill. Yet the two men remained warm friends.

UP FROM BOTTOM

This trait of standing firm for what he believes, without arousing personal animosities, may arise from McCormack's early conditioning. He came up the hard way.

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My friend, Dr. Charles H. Eyer-mann, of St. Louis, who has long labored in the vineyard of hay fever and allergy, takes me to task in a friendly way for saying, as I did a few weeks ago, that ragweed was a perfectly useless plant, despised by all creatures. His researches have disclosed that quail eat ragweed. In fact, that they eat it in preference to other foods.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

For the quail the following provisional classes of palatability may be set up:

Class	Name of Class
I	Preferred Foods
II	Staple Foods
III	Emergency Food
IV	"Stuffing"

Examples for Missouri:
Milk, ragweed
Grains
Buckbrush berries, locust beans
Sumac berries (?)

"This classification implies that grains are not eaten in quantity until ragweed becomes hard to get. In Clark County, in the middle of December, 1929, I worked intensively an area of several sections and found numerous coves so far from corn that they must have been subsisting almost entirely on ragweed."

Hay fever sufferers should aid in discovering animals that destroy ragweed. If quails do it there must be other destroyers. This is of application to a campaign that I have been carrying on for some time to provide natural means of destroying the pest, ragweed.

Agricultural experts think that ragweed grows best on the less fertile soils. Cattle avoid it in grazing, but goats, contrary to its reputation, eat it without discrimination. On heavily grazed fields, it grows luxuriantly.

"Drouth probably gives it an advantage in competition.

"The heavy growth of ragweed which occurs where pheasant or poultry have been opened, to the sod and enriched the soil is well known to game breeders.

"It seems likely that openings in pasture sod caused by grubs may also allow the spread of ragweed, and if, as alleged, crows are an important enemy of white grubs, we have a new chain of cause-and-effect in bird phenomena."

All this seems a little impractical, as yet, but at least it consists of facts, and in the course of time if we keep working on it, we may hit on a method of destroying ragweed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. V. C. Painesville, Ohio.—"Please advise treatment for dandruff."

Answer: In addition to frequent shampooing, and antiseptic treatment with alcoholic washes—bay rum—the use of a scalp wash containing sulphur is useful. Severe cases need attention from specialists.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has several pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Premature Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

NEXT MORNING Gun was about soon after sunrise, and from then on was as active as a cat on hot bricks. He wandered around the bungalow, constantly staring over at the wooden fence, and straining his ears to catch any sound. What was happening behind that fence—or what HAD happened? Had Coral been discovered trying to pursue her unnecessary investigations? If so...

Gun shuddered at it, thought. He realized the position between Coral and Otto, and knew pretty well how the latter would behave if he found she was double-crossing him. It was not a pleasant reflection, apart from its repercussions upon his own escape.

He ate hardly any breakfast—which was a normal one according to the standards existing before Trent started his "persuasion."

Tommy, on the other hand, ate heartily and was full of optimism. Gun's restlessness and anxiety lasted until about noon, and then, to his immense relief, he saw a slender figure, with flame colored hair, emerge from the small gate in the wooden fence and begin to cross the open space in the direction of the bungalow. She was smoking a cigarette, and walked with a swaggering gait. Plainly all was well with her.

Gun heaved a sigh of relief, and went in to pour himself out a stiff whiskey to steady the reaction on his already overstrained nerves.

When he looked again she was chatting gaily with the guard at the gate. Finally she gave him a cigarette, and showed him a slip of paper. Whereupon he laughed, shrugged, and unlocked the gate to let her in.

Tommy was around at the back of the bungalow, basking in the sunshine. Gun decided to intercept her. He emerged from the door, his attitude languid and indifferent. Apparently seeing Coral for the first time, he went to meet her, but with no more apparent eagerness than ordinary politeness demanded.

"Good morning," he greeted her. Then, quickly: "Just stroll around the corner with me—this way. I want to talk to you, but I don't want Hazeldene to hear."

They strolled around the side of the bungalow until they were hidden both from Tommy and from any possible other watcher—they were between the bungalow and the steep slope of the overhanging hill.

"Frankly, Miss Coral, I'm every kind of fool," Gun confessed. "I should have realized last night that you were speaking the truth—I did later, as a matter of fact."

"So I realized from your remark about identities," she smiled at him.

"You must forgive me," Gun went on, eagerly. "The rather drastic method adopted by our friend Trent has rather got to my nerves. But tell me—does X know where you are?"

"No. I don't know where I am myself. Before we left I only knew that I was coming to the headquarters of the gang—or one of their headquarters, anyway. They have another at Chenham, in Kent, and another in the south of France, not far from Cannes."

"The devil they have," said Gun. "I knew something of the first one, but not the second."

"We must go around and find your friend," Coral said, anxiously. "We can have a talk then, but very soon I must get Mr. Hazeldene into the bungalow, and work my wicked wiles on him. We shall have to stage it, because you're quite right—there are hidden microphones in both the bedroom and the sitting room, and they can listen in over there to everything that's said. And they mustn't suspect I'm not on the level or . . . well . . . just or . . ."

Gun agreed. "But there's just one thing I must tell you before we join Tommy. I don't want him to know, because he's such an impetuous, quick-tempered blighter that he might give the whole show away."

"Quickly, then—what is it?"

"Just this. There's no need for you to investigate any further as to what these beauties are up to. I and quick-witted. His or her only misfortune will be a too impressionable nature which may cause him to suffer through misplaced affections."

Hints on Etiquette

Pay attention to a person who is talking to you, even if you are not interested. It is the height of discourtesy to act as if you were bored.

Farm Income Higher—headline. That's good news for city folk who have relatives on a farm and managed to have an hour with Trent's keys and his desk, and found out the whole thing—or all the main essentials, anyway."

"Did you, though?" She looked at him with some admiration. "That was pretty clever of you. How did you do it?"

"That's keep," answered Gun. "The main point is that I know their little game now. It means that we've got to get away from here, and very soon, if we're to prevent such destruction and loss of life, it gives one cold shivers to think about it. We mustn't worry about anything else at the moment, but just how to get away."

"And that won't be easy," commented the girl. "Have you got any sort of plan?"

"Yes, a rough one. But we can discuss it later. I want to tell you what this scheme of your friends over there really amounts to. Have you any idea?"

"Only the vaguest. I gather there's going to be a . . . holdup, and someone's likely to get hurt in the process. They've a regular arsenal over there, with enough stock in it to blow up a village."

"It's more than a village they intend to blow up," Gun interrupted, grimly. "Listen—here's the scheme in a nutshell. There seem to be three parties concerned. Firstly, some immensely wealthy men who are financing the scheme. Secondly, a group of financiers who can work the stock market."

"Ah," she interrupted. "That's where Watson comes in."

"No doubt!" Gun's voice was grimmer than ever. "And the third group are the practical men—the men who are to do the dirty work. Your friend Otto seems to be in charge of that section. And the idea is, in a sense, a very simple one. On a certain day—or, more likely, night—an airplane will fly over London. Simultaneously—or as nearly so as possible—another one will appear over Berlin. Each of these machines will drop three or four bombs on the busiest part of the city—incidentally wrecking the buildings and killing and maiming hundreds of thousands of people."

"Good heavens!" Coral had gone pale, and stared at Gun with startled eyes. "But WHY—what's the object?"

"Only this. Immediately after the bombing, in both London and Berlin, an intensive propaganda scheme will be put into operation. It will be rumored that the machine that bombed Berlin was a British one, and that the one that bombed London was an Italian one."

Thus the temper of the population of both countries will be roused to fever pitch. There will be instant danger of war—a danger that may well become fact—and in consequence there will be a panic on the stock exchanges of three countries—England, Germany and Italy.

And to men who can control the markets, and who know beforehand what is going to happen, it will be easy to make an enormous fortune."

"Good heavens!" Coral gasped again. Even she was overcome with the enormity of the scheme.

"It's due to come off on the 25th at the latest," Gun went on. "And we are the only ones outside the gang who know it—and, somehow, we've got to stop it. That means we've got to move at once, and move quickly. And now we'd better join Tommy Hazeldene, and put our heads together before you stage your show in the bungalow. But remember, not a word to him about the real game our friends are playing, or he may easily ruin us completely."

Chatting lightly, as though neither of them had a care in the world, they strolled around the bungalow and on to the lawn.

"We must hurry up," Coral said anxiously. "If I don't get to work vamping Mr. Hazeldene here soon, they'll be suspecting something."

"All right," said Gun. "Now look here. You've had a chance to look around the place a bit, I take it. Where do you think we are?"

"On some obscure island of the Greek archipelago."

"I thought as much. You've located their arsenal, haven't you? Got any idea where the keys are kept?"

"Yes, I've found that out. Trent keeps them."

"Good. Think you might be able to get hold of them?"

"I can try, anyway."

"It's important. If we can manage that, we can put a spoke in their wheel that will shake the whole damned vehicle. Now, how many men do you think there are on the island?"

"I don't think—I know. Thirty-one—including Oscar and the pilot who brought us over."

"You're thorough—I'll say that for you. What have they got tucked away behind that wooden fence, exactly?"

"Living quarters. Two workshops. A laboratory where they've been making up their explosives. And a few nondescript sheds."

"Where's the arsenal, then?"

"Right away from the rest—they're not taking any chances. It's in a sort of cave, dug into the hill-side, there."

"A good idea. Do they keep a sentry there?"

"Day and night, I gather."

"Ah! But it can be dealt with—if we're lucky. What sort of fellows have they got here—the men, I mean?"

"A pretty tough gang—the sort that wouldn't stop at much if they were out for trouble."

"But what nationalities?"

"German, Italian, Spanish mostly. A few English and Americans. And two Japs."

"Hm! Cosmopolitan."

"Yes. And tough, as I said. But they all seem to love me, which is an advantage."

"Shows there's sense among them as well as variety. And now, hurry. I'm getting worried about what they'll think over there."

"All right. Take your young man into the bungalow now, and do your stuff. Tommy, you'll have to seem to be weakening, but you mustn't give in yet. Let 'Hope for tomorrow' be the motto. We must play them, for the moment, as the angier plays his fish—only they mustn't see the hook, or feel the line. Now, off you go—and while you're in there I'll see if I can work out some sort of a plan. Thank heavens we've plenty of cigarettes."

The other two rose and went into the bungalow, and for the best part of an hour Gun sprawled on the grass, smoking cigarette after cigarette, and seeking for the best and safest plan of escape.

When the others joined him he glanced up at them with a grin.

"Well, how did you get on?" Tommy chuckled—Coral looked a little flushed.

"Oh, fine! I'm almost eating out of her hand, but not quite. Later I was trying to persuade her to help me to escape and to run away with her—leaving you here to stand the racket."

"Dirty dog!" Gun grinned. "Only she won't agree until I tell her all about the invention. She wants to get the dough first, and then make our getaway."

"Gold digger!" Gun laughed. "But that's stuff. I'll bet they're laughing like the devil over there."

Coral made a face.

"I doubt if Otto is, for one. He's so beastly jealous!"

Gun laughed again. "He must realize that one can't make omelets without breaking eggs."

"Time's getting on," said Coral. "What about that plan?"

Gun suddenly became grave again.

"Here's the general idea, anyway. We'd better fix it for tomorrow night—and I'm afraid most of the work falls on to your shoulders—for the first part, at any rate."

"I can stand that."

"In the first place, you must get the key of the arsenal, somehow. Then you'll have to get the key of this infernal gate from the guard outside—again somehow. I'll admit I can't see how. Tcen you let us out. We make a dive straight for the arsenal. We must get hold of a supply of those G.13 pearls—the effect is not to kill, but to render unconscious for a considerable time. Then we'll get to windward, round the show, and gas them when they come at us. After that we'll blow up the arsenal."

Stopped here and there for a chat and learned that the Jap threat to the U. S. is causing no apprehension. Nor is the Brenner Pass conference of Hitler and Mussolini. We just refuse to be war minded and I think that we will be even more so when we are adequately armed. Armament is expensive, but not so expensive as the tribute that would be exacted by a conquerer.

A politician called and asked what I thought of the fight up Columbus way. When I asked

"what fight?" he called attention to the tilt between Davey and Bricker. Seemed as though he was all excited over the situation and thought everyone else should be as well. Told him that I believe public interest right now is centered on the European and Asiatic situations and what is happening in Washington, and did ask him if he would turn his attention from a world championship heavyweight battle to watch a tilt between a couple of newsboys. The world situation probably will settle the national election and other candidates, I think, will tag along.

Two Are Hostesses At Party for Bride-Elect

Miss Regina Mack
Honored Friday
Evening

Social Calendar

Miss Dorothy Beatty and Miss Eleanor Dreisbach were joint hostesses at miscellaneous shower and bridge party Friday honoring Miss Regina Mack whose coming marriage was announced recently. The gay affair was at the Wardell party home, the guests gathering at 8 p. m.

Zinnias, marigolds and other lovely garden flowers made a pleasing setting for the party, bud vases of roses centering the small tables when the salad lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Miss Mack received many beautiful and unusual gifts from her friends.

When tallies were compared after the games of contract bridge, the trophies were awarded Miss Mary Jane Schlear and Mrs. Sam Johnson.

The guests included Miss Mack, her mother, Mrs. Charles L. Mack, Mrs. Edward Helwag, Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, Mrs. Roy Beatty, Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Ann Vlerobome, Miss Lydia Given, Miss Schlear, Miss Louise Helwag, Miss Mary Crites, Miss Doris Leist, Miss Doris Moffitt, Mrs. Ned Harden, Mrs. Fred Grant, Miss Marjorie Mader, Miss Polly Briggs, Mrs. Thomas Alkire, Miss Mary K. May, Miss Dorothy Fohl, Circleville; Mrs. William Dunlap, Williamsport and Mrs. Joe Bell, East Akron.

Pre-nuptial Party

The last of the many delightful pre-nuptial parties honoring Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller, whose wedding day is Sunday, was a miscellaneous shower Friday, Miss Helen Spindler entertaining at her home in Ashville.

A pink and white color theme was carried out in the living and dining room of the Spindler home, masses of chrysanthemums in these shades being used. Other colorful garden flowers added to the seasonal setting.

A pink sprinkling can was suspended over the chair in which the bride-elect was seated while opening her many beautiful shower gifts. Other details of the shower arrangement were in keeping with the color theme.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening to the Misses Ruth Courtwright, Jean Cause, Jessie F. Gloyd, Jane Lindsey, Wilma Creager, Gretchen Hedges, Marjorie Dreisbach, Martha Mary Brinker, Catherine Marion, Marguerite Hoover, Helen Boyer, Roberta Cromley, Mrs. Alfred Smith, Mrs. Everett Peters, Mrs. E. H.; Miss Mary Martha Hamman, Miss Jean Skinner and Miss Jean Creighton, Club members playing were Mrs. Pearl Ater, Mrs. Ward Dean, Mrs. Omar Creighton, Miss McKinley Kirkpatrick, Washington C. H.; Mrs. Wendell Evans, Mrs. John Farmer, Jr., Mrs. Leslie Canup, Mrs. Royal Hamman, Mrs. George McGhee, Mrs. Van Meter Hulise, Mrs. Paul Peck and the hostess.

Several tables of bridge progressed and when scores were tallied, prizes were won by Mrs. Stewart, guest high; Mrs. Canup, club high; Mrs. Hamman, traveling; and Mrs. George McGhee, low. A salad course was served at the close of the afternoon. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Wright. Mrs. George McGhee will entertain the club at the November session.

Zelda Bible Class

The Zelda Bible Class held its monthly social meeting Friday in the Methodist Church, the session opening with group singing followed by prayer.

Mrs. Lloyd Sproule planned the enjoyable program, Mrs. Leon Van Vleet and Miss Mary Ruth Nogle playing a duet arrangement of "Goodnight" by Franz Bendel for the first number.

Mrs. G. H. Adkins gave an interesting review of her recent western trip, which was well received by the audience. Mrs. Van Vleet played a piano solo, "The Pilgrims' Chorus," Tannhauser.

Mrs. W. T. Ulm discussed the restoration of Williamsburg, concluding the entertainment.

Refreshments were served to 29 members and guests.

Hedges Chapel Society

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Thursday at Hedges Chapel with Mrs. Anna Hedges presiding. Installation of officers was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Woodworth in an impressive service.

Mrs. J. B. Cromley led the devotions. During the business hour, it was decided that the dues would be $1 annually. It was requested that the 76 charter members pay the dues before November 1. Pumpkin show plans were discussed and the calendar of hostesses for the year was read.

Mrs. Woodworth used the map of the world to present the lesson study from "Our Heritage."

Lunch was served by Mrs. Cromley, Mrs. Martin Cromley, Mrs. Lida Brinker, Mrs. Charles Hay,

Star's Hobby

Diana Lewis, like many another feminine film player, goes in for knitting between scenes of "Bitter Sweet," in which she appears with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

After a short business session, the program consisted of selected readings, questions and contests.

Mrs. Charles Niles and Mrs. Hetty Spangler were guests for the afternoon.

Delightful refreshments were served by Miss Black assisted by Mrs. George Bentley.

Tuxis Club

"What Can A Group Do?" will be the topic for discussion Thursday evening when the Tuxis Club meets in the social room of the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey will be in charge of the games.

Pickaway County Garden Club

Richard de Monye of Columbus, a Dutch bulb importer, gave an interesting talk on "Bulbs" at the Friday meeting of the Pickaway County Garden Club before 50 members who gathered for the session at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Valentine of Salt-creek Township. The Valentine home was gay with flowers grown and presented by Robert L. Bremer, Henry Swearingen and Miss Ruth Morris.

Mr. de Monye has an estate in Columbus where he grows most of the early flowers such as hyacinths, tulips, pansies, jonquils, crocus and narcissus. His illustrations in color were of many views of the gardens at his home, including quaint plantings about an old well and an old mill. The mill was about 75 years old he said. He showed colorful pictures of flowers blooming in beds about 50 feet long, the beds being planted for display. Pictures of the gardens of Dr. Lyle of Columbus, and of others in Bexley and Gahanna were shown. The Lyle garden featured bulbs and was shown in the spring when it was a mass of color and beauty. He included pictures of two children in Dutch costume in a tulip garden and showed two Indians, Lone Deer and Corn Harvester, landing from a canoe near a colorful tulip garden.

He named and discussed varieties and mentioned the best qualities of different bulbs. Mr. de Monye said that in Holland cauliflower was grown in tulip beds to destroy bulb disease.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle, president, received the report of Mrs. R. F. Lilly, secretary, and Mrs. Irene Reichelderfer, treasurer, during the business session which opened the meeting.

Mrs. F. K. Blair, Miss Florence Duntun, Mrs. Lilly and Mrs. G. C. Campbell gave brief reports of the meeting of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs held recently in Chillicothe. Mrs. Donald H. Watt, chairman of the program committee, presented the speaker of the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Valentine assisted by Mrs. H. E. Betz, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Miss Mary Hulise, Henry Swearingen, and Miss Ruth Morris.

The next session, November 1, will be at the home of Mrs. Clarence McAbee, Wayne Township. Members of the committee include Miss Ella Crum, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pontius, Miss Mattie Crum and Mrs. G. G. Campbell. Mr. Noggle will present his color picture, "Roses."

WALNUT SCHOOL NEWS

FIRST GRADE

We have 30 boys and girls in our room this year.

Our room has new furniture. We have little tables and little chairs. Eight people can sit at one table. We like our new furniture. We also like our floor. It is not only new and we can play on it without getting dirty.

We rest a while each day just after noon. We lie down on small rugs to rest.

The boys in our room made a bookcase out of four orange crates. The girls painted it green. We use three big shelves for our rugs. In the others we keep our big picture books.

We have been looking for pretty leaves. Tuesday we all walked over to Mr. Griffith's house to see the pretty leaves there. We are going to shellac some of the pretty leaves the boys and girls bring to school. Then they will stay pretty.

SECOND GRADE
We have new tables and chairs in the Second Grade. Our floor is waxed. Every day we rest on our new rugs. We made and painted shelves for our rugs.

We have been talking about the work that do in the fall. The people are getting ready for winter. We have drawn pictures of people doing fall work.

THIRD GRADE
We have had fun playing our favorite stories. We liked best the story of Walter, the Lazy Mouse.

SIXTH GRADE
The sixth grade has enrolled two new pupils so far this year. They are Estelle Le Master, from Ashville, and Gracie McCain. We are very glad to have these pupils and we hope to receive more new ones during the year.

In geography we each made a paper map of South America. The class was then divided into five groups. Each group painted one map with water colors.

The class is also making a collection of odd shaped stones and rocks. So far we have collected some Indian hatchets, arrow heads and other odd shaped stones.

EIGHTH GRADE
The Eighth Grade has a new member. Kermit Clum came from Madison Township to join the class, making a total of 15 boys and 14 girls.

GRADE MUSIC
The fourth grade is the only one so far that is organized and studying musical units. They are studying the composers of George Washington's time. They are also learning a some of the dances of the period, especially the Minuet. Also, they are studying the musical instruments of that period.

Individuals are being urged to take lessons on musical instruments. The ideas in mind, is to build up future band and orchestra material.

HIGH SCHOOL
Dr. Blackburn examined the first grade children and administered vaccinations and immunizations to those desiring this service on Monday of this week.

A. B. Weiser, superintendent of Canal Winchester Schools, was a caller at the office Monday.

County Superintendent, George D. McDowell spent the day Tuesday visiting the various rooms of Walnut School. He reported favorably on the attitude and accomplishment of the school during the first month.

ATHLETICS

The Boys Athletic Association sponsored a magazine sale at the beginning of the school year and collected $14.26 as their share of the sales money. This money will be used to purchase athletic equipment.

The Board of Education plans to improve the playground. The plans include lengthening of the Tennis Court and constructing an outside basketball court. A site for the basketball court has been selected and leveled east of the school house. It is hoped in the near future that both will be covered with asphalt.

GIRLS GLEE CLUB
The Girls Glee Club of Walnut Township School is composed of approximately fifty girls. The officers of the club for 1940-41 are as follows:

President, Eloise Hay.
Vice President, Nelle Truex.
Secretary-Treasurer, Betty Frazier.

Librarians, Elsie Barr and Edith Strehle.
News Reporters, High School, Helen Heffner, Grades, Jeanette Spangler.

One of our chief aims this year is to enter the State Contest.

BAND MEMBERS TRAVEL TO GAME

Circleville High's band accompanied the football team to the Greenfield-Circleville football game last night. Between halves, the band gave a display of marching formations. At different intervals of the game, they played marches for the enjoyment of the crowd.

Mr. Zaenglein has ordered several new marches. He intends to combine these marches with some of the best pieces he has now and form a loose-leaf march book for use in the Pumpkin Show parades.

BOARD BUYS EQUIPMENT
Circleville Board of Education has bought thirteen new typewriters. One has been placed in the principal's office, and the others in room 201 for the typing classes. Samuel R. Johnson has purchased some new debate material and Miss Gretchen Moeller, librarian, has received several new reference books.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS
Miss Reba Lee had charge of Miss Eleanor Ryan's classes all day Tuesday. Miss Ryan was absent because of illness. Miss Nell Oesterle, Ashville, substituted Wednesday for Miss Margaret A. Mattinson who was absent because of illness.

Samuel Johnson Calls Debaters

TWELVE BECOME E. M. S. MEMBERS

At 6:00, Wednesday evening, twelve "unfortunate" people awaited their formal initiation into the E. M. S. One by one they were led blindfolded into a candle light room where their intelligence and eligibility were decided by the high court of knowledge. These victims were Rosemary Brown, Patty Owens, Martha Pile, Robert Schumm, Margaret Ward and Betty Waters, sophomores; Mary Catherine Stein, junior; Mary Short, Mary Schreiner, Charles Mumaw Stella Skinner, and Grace Wagner, seniors.

Following this test, a supper was served. Initiates were allowed to use only the primitive man's eating utensils, and during the meal they entertained club members by singing and performing all requests.

Thursday morning these people appeared at school in cheesecloth togas, on which were written in red "E. M. S.", and hair done up with ribbons. Their period of servitude to old members of the club lasted all day. They will attend their first regular meeting in two weeks.

STOOGES ACCEPT NINE MEMBERS TUESDAY NIGHT

At the regular meeting of the Stooze club this week, new members were elected to the club. Also the booth to be operated at Pumpkin Show was discussed.

Nine members were initiated Tuesday night and Wednesday. A formal initiation is not held by the Stooze club. The new members who were taken in are Carl Bach, David Orr and David Yates, sophomores; Norma Anderson, Bob Moon and Joseph Staley, juniors; Elmer Barr, Richard Brintlinger and Jack Imier, seniors.

Robert Brown, president, appointed a committee to paint the refreshment booth Saturday. Thomas Dewey is chairman.

New members will attend their first meeting at Harry Clifton's next Tuesday.

EDITORIAL

SCHOOL SPIRIT

School spirit is that feeling which causes each and every student to wish and work for the greatest good and success to any and all connected with our school.

This pertains not only to the success of our pupils but to that of our teachers, board of education and every one connected with the system of public school education. Without coordination between teachers and pupils school spirit will be lacking. Every teacher wishes the best for every pupil not only in education but in sports and in health; so every pupil should help in some way some other pupil, by friendship, understanding and financial or spiritual aid.

Many high school pupils are backward and shy; they are not able to come into contact with others. Helping such pupils even in a small way by clearing a misunderstanding and making others welcome in club work will encourage school spirit. In fact "do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is as good a rule to encourage it as any we shall find.

School spirit will drive us to back our band to the limit, to help the football boys keep in training and keep grades up. Now is the time to get behind the team and show your spirit by pushing it and not falling down on the job when everything seems to be going against it.

Put as much enthusiasm into your studies and activities you do not like as you do in those which you like—meet life with a smile and cooperate with others to the best of your ability and most things will come more easily.

School spirit is a real feature of all our efforts toward development.

—Margaret Boggs.

JUNIOR RESERVE HEARS REPORTS

Thursday in their business meeting, the Junior Girl Reserves had reports on dues, sales tax stamps, and the sale of pencils. The girls also made plans for a candy sale, to be held on Thursday, October 10. Everyone is expected to cooperate fully.

Betty Waters presented a short discussion on "What's Wrong With High School Girls?" taken from an article in Good Housekeeping Magazine.

"BAREFOOT BOY"

A full length motion picture, "Barefoot Boy", will be presented in assembly next Thursday at 10 a. m. This film is advertised as a story which glorifies the American boy. It is a modern "Tom Sawyer."

"Barefoot Boy" is a story of youth and its high code of honor. It concerns Billy Whitaker and his friends, normal country children, who spend their time happily fishing, swimming, hunting and exploring a so-called haunted house.

Grade children will see the picture later in the day. Admission is 10c.

JUNIORS ADOPT SALES PROJECT

Buy a magazine! Just one little subscription! Help out the junior class! These are some of the exclamations you may have heard or will hear within the next week as members of the junior class canvass the town.

A committee composed of the junior class officers; Joseph Staley, president; Robert Goeller, vice president; Dorothy Cook, secretary-treasurer; and Margaret Boggs, Jean Imier and Lois Madison has met with Mr. Gaffner of the Curtis Publishing Company to make plans for the campaign.

Margaret Boggs, Miriam Brown, Dorothy Dreisbach, Janet Funk, Wanda Grabbill, Marvinne Henness, Jean Imier, Mary Lou Koehneiser, Lois Madison, Betty Moeller, Eleanor Weaver and Gloria Wilson are the captains chosen by the committee. Each of these girls will collect from the members of her team money handed in each day. The highest salesman each day who brings in either two subscriptions or $3.00 will receive $5.00. Dorothy Cook is the treasurer for this campaign.

Twelve teams will be divided into two major teams called the Green and Gold. A large poster will be placed in the study hall and the day's sales will be recorded on it.

SCHOOL SELECTS REPRESENTATIVE FOR SHOW TITLE

All high school classes have been participating in elections during the last three days to determine their choice for the school's representative in the Pumpkin Show beauty parade.

First class meetings to arrange this event were held at 3:25 Thursday. At that time the freshmen chose Mary Virginia Crites; the sophomores, Patty Owens; juniors, Gloria Jane Wilson, and the seniors chose Jane Colville to represent them.

Final election was held Friday when Gloria Wilson was chosen as queen. She will represent Circleville high school in the final county contests which will be held after the Beauty Parade Wednesday night of Pumpkin Show.

LOCAL HI-Y CLUB TO ELECT EIGHT

Circleville Hi-Y club members were host to 17 high school boys at their meeting, Monday evening. This open meeting was for the benefit of the 22 prospective new members that seek entrance into the club. At Monday's meeting the club voted to accept eight of these applicants at their next meeting. This will bring the total membership of the club to 30.

Other business at this weekly meeting included a report of the penny carnival committee and the type of initiation for the new members. The club voted to give the initiates formal and semi-formal tests. Jack Beck, president, appointed Robert Brown, William Burget, Ralph Schumm, chairman, and George Skaggs as a committee to plan the initiation.

Paul Turner closed the meeting with a brief discussion of the club's activities. William Burget was appointed to have the next club program.

NEW PUPILS

C. H. S. welcomes three new pupils who are taking their places among the students. These people are Paul List a sophomore who came to Circleville from Eldorado, Texas; Catherine Ramsey, another sophomore from Harris-Eldorado school, near Toledo; and Mary Short, a senior from South high school in Columbus.

WEDNESDAY SAW INITIAL MEETING OF DEBATE CLUB

Samuel Johnson, debate coach of Circleville High, called the students in the high school who are interested in the debate club to the initial meeting of this organization Wednesday at 3:45. At their time Mr. Johnson obtained this registrations, and explained to them some of the elementary rudiments of debating.

"Prospects are good this year," said Mr. Johnson. "More interest has been shown this season in debate than in any other year during my instructing at this school." At the first meeting there were approximately twenty-five members registered, including those of the public speaking class.

Much material has arrived pertaining to the topic for discussion this year, "Resolved: That the Power of the Federal Government Should Be Increased". This is a very timely subject, with all the conflict in Europe and Asia, and should arouse great interest among the students studying the topic.

Mr. Johnson has also received an invitation for C. H. S. to become a charter member of the national order of the "Masque and the Gavel". This is a club designed to further speech work in the high schools throughout the country. As yet it is undecided whether or not this school will accept the invitation and become charter members of this organization.

In addition to this, Mr. Johnson announced that he has considered entering several contestants in the field of extemporaneous speaking. As yet, however, no definite plans have been made.

HS GIRLS' CLUB PLANS PROGRAM

Sometime this year the club plans to present an assembly program. A committee was appointed to decide upon the type of program to be given and to make arrangements for the date. This committee consists of Marilyn Campbell, Lois Madison (chairman) Grace Wagner and Doris Waters.

Thursday afternoon the Senior Girl Reserves heard a report of the financial status of the club. Stella Skinner, treasurer, reported on sales tax receipts last year. The girls decided to collect stamps again this year. Rosemary Huffer will have charge of them.

Senior Reserves will attend church in a body the second Sunday in every month.

The program consisted of discussions on various sections of the Girl Reserve code. Maxine Betts gave a short talk on "Ready for Service" and Joan Downing talked on "Earnest in Purpose." Helen Beck gave a short talk.

Sir Walter Scott published his first book in 1799, when he was 28 years old.

ADMINISTERING THE TEACHING PERSONNEL—by D. H. Cooke. An attempt is made to show and clarify the problems confronting the official head of a school system. It is the author's belief that better cooperation between teachers and administrators will result if classroom teachers study this book which gives a group of administrative principles and practices based on scientific investigation and research. The book is also intended to be used as a basic text book in professional courses. Listed on the Ohio Teachers' Reading Circle for 1940-41.

BEHOLD OUR LAND—by Russell Lord. This is a story of the soil. It shows how land was formed and developed, and finally how it appeared to the American pioneers. We see what they did in a few decades to that product of countless ages; we can trace westward migration in terms of the land; we come at last to the floods, dust storms, and the desperate conservation efforts of today. The best reading and most interesting to the ordinary reader of all the books listed on the Ohio Teachers' Reading Circle for 1940-41.

NAVY MEN ARE CALLED Gobs from a derivation of the Chinese word meaning sailor. The word came into use when the fleet was in the Far East.

STAR SAYS—
For Saturday, October 5
ACCORDING to the lunar aspects this should be a very lively day with things of major consequence stirring in connection with groups, public or fraternal or humanitarian projects. Some rather drastic or seemingly ruthless action may be required to launch such promotions on a safe and enduring basis, as they may have profound and far reaching consequences involving the public welfare. In these efforts confer with superiors or those in authority, for they will be in approachable mood. Those whose birthday it is are to have a year of major importance, with much very decisive activity in the cause of public welfare, either of a political, diplomatic, spiritual or humanitarian purpose. Such aims and ends will be best promoted by the endorsement and practical support of those in power and authority. Seek this with confidence and sound plans. A child born on this day may have much capacity for public work, with sympathy, understanding and insight into reforms, social and humane needs, general public well-being.

For Sunday, October 6
SUNDAY'S horoscope is propitious for affairs of church and state and for educational, cultural and legal aspirations. Otherwise there seem to be deep undercurrents, with pitfalls, snares, schemes and all manner of subtleties and treacheries to cope with by vigilance, shrewdness and correspondent savvy. Be wise with funds and wary with signatures. Those whose birthday it is may enjoy some legal, professional, cultural or spiritual benefits during the year. But generally there are signs of deep-laid plots, schemes, treacheries, intrigues and duplicities calling for similar subtlety and craft to cope with. But in this be careful not to overdo or to be dragged in deeper into confusion and betrayal. Be alert to all machinations, safeguard funds and affix signatures with much scrutiny. A child born on this day may have many keen talents, deep insight and probably curious "hunches" or intuitive guidance. But it should not fall into false security and questionable entanglements by such faculties.

A child born on this day may have many keen talents, deep insight and probably curious "hunches" or intuitive guidance. But it should not fall into false security and questionable entanglements by such faculties.

NAVY MEN ARE CALLED Gobs from a derivation of the Chinese word meaning sailor. The word came into use when the fleet was in the Far East.

STAR SAYS—
For Saturday, October 5
ACCORDING to the lunar aspects this should be a very lively day with things of major consequence stirring in connection with groups, public or fraternal or humanitarian projects. Some rather drastic or seemingly ruthless action may be required to launch such promotions on a safe and enduring basis, as they may have profound and far reaching consequences involving the public welfare. In these efforts confer with superiors or those in authority, for they will be in approachable mood. Those whose birthday it is are to have a year of major importance, with much very decisive activity in the cause of public welfare, either of a political, diplomatic, spiritual or humanitarian purpose. Such aims and ends will be best promoted by the endorsement and practical support of those in power and authority. Seek this with confidence and sound plans. A child born on this day may have much capacity for public work, with sympathy, understanding and insight into reforms, social and humane needs, general public well-being.

For Sunday, October 6
SUNDAY'S horoscope is propitious for affairs of church and state and for educational, cultural and legal aspirations. Otherwise there seem to be deep undercurrents, with pitfalls, snares, schemes and all manner of subtleties and treacheries to cope with by vigilance, shrewdness and correspondent savvy. Be wise with funds and wary with signatures. Those whose birthday it is may enjoy some legal, professional, cultural or spiritual benefits during the year. But generally there are signs of deep-laid plots, schemes, treacheries, intrigues and duplicities calling for similar subtlety and craft to cope with. But in this be careful not to overdo or to be dragged in deeper into confusion and betrayal. Be alert to all machinations, safeguard funds and affix signatures with much scrutiny. A child born on this day may have many keen talents, deep insight and probably curious "hunches" or intuitive guidance. But it should not fall into false security and questionable entanglements by such faculties.

BLANKS ARE AWAITED

Terwilliger Says Several Committees To Be Well Balanced

Recommendations for Pickaway County's five-man draft board, its three-man registrant's advisory committee and its appeal agent have been completed and will be sent to Columbus for Governor Bricker's approval Saturday.

The county draft committee, consisting of Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger, Probate Judge Lemuel Weldon and Clark Will, announced its recommendations completed Saturday morning after a final applicant for the draft board announced that he would be willing to serve. Names of draft board members will be withheld until they have been approved by the governor.

Judge Terwilliger said he believed the names the committee had recommended represented the interests of the county and the committees were well balanced in every respect. Their approval by the governor is expected early next week.

Judges Notified

Following a meeting of the County Board of Elections Friday afternoon, Claude Kraft, board clerk, announced that letters were being mailed Saturday to presiding judges in the 40 voting precincts in the county instructing them to make arrangements for registering Pickaway County's 4,179 men affected by the selective draft law.

The board of elections is asking the presiding judge in each precinct to select five persons to serve with him as an advisory committee for registrants on October 16. Male persons affected by the draft law may not serve on the precinct committees, Kraft pointed out. He suggested that the precinct committees serve in shifts of two. Registration booths will be open on Registration Day from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m.

The election board chairman said that he had not yet received complete instructions or necessary registration blanks, but added that he had been informed they would be received at least four days before registration. As soon as definite information has been received, precinct judges will be called in and given application forms and instructions, Kraft said.

BRITAIN ADMITS LINER'S LOSS IN ATLANTIC AREA

LONDON, Oct. 5 — Sinking of the British Royal Mail liner Highland Patriot October 1 by a torpedo in the Atlantic was announced in London today.

(Editor's Note: Destruction of the 14,157-ton vessel was announced in a German communique several days ago.)

The official British announcement said survivors from the vessel have now been landed at a northern British port.

It added that all 33 passengers aboard the vessel were safe and that 136 officers and members of the crew landed at the port, while three crew members had been killed. The liner was en route to South America when attacked.

It was stated that the ship was torpedoed by a German submarine early in the morning of October 1, but that nearly all passengers and crew members, totalling 172, were rescued by a British warship.

It was reported the submarine fired two torpedoes at the Highland Patriot. The first set fire to the ship, which blazed for several hours before sinking. The first explosion also smashed two lifeboats.

Within seven minutes all survivors were in the lifeboats, one of which was said to have been narrowly missed by the submarine's second torpedo.

The rescue warship sighted dense smoke on the horizon several hours after the liner was attacked and raced to the scene.

Thrills And Comedy Feature Theatre Programs

WHEN Joan Blondell and Dick Powell get together in a comedy-drama which deals with one of those curious aftermaths of marriage—something called divorce—the result should be a motion picture full of laughs, family clashes and tender makings-up, of course. And according to all reports, that's just what moviegoers are going to get in "I Want a Divorce," which Paramount will present on Sunday at the Clifton Theatre. Aided by such excellent performers as Gloria Dickson, Frank Fay, Jessie Ralph and Conrad Nagel, Joan and Dick cavort through a story which was made to order for them, for they are man and wife in real life.

ERROL Flynn, above, is the romantic star of "The Sea Hawk," opening Sunday at the Grand Theatre for a three day run. The cast of "The Sea Hawk" also includes Brenda Marshall, Donald Crisp and Alan Hale.

FLORENCE Rice and Walter Pidgeon are the principals involved in the new Nick Carter adventure, "Phantom Raiders," which opens Sunday on the Circle screen, with Pidgeon again filling the role of fiction's most colorful man hunter, this time solving a mystery in the Panama Canal Zone. Joseph Schildkraut, John Carroll, Donald Meek, Nat Pendleton and Steffi Duna are others in the cast.

John Young, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bay, Mrs. Roy Yeasel of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Griffith of Rushville and Virginia and Marilyn Christy.

Balmaccan

Balmaccans are never out of style—but this year they're at popularity's peak! Snug fitting collars, broad raglan shoulders and billowy, loose body lines make this one of the most comfortable and universally becoming coats ever designed. University men go for it in a big way—but you don't need a college education to appreciate its merits. Griffon-tailored—in a wide sweep of striking patterns—at a price you can cheerfully pay: $25!
